Information on accompanying documents

All documents must be shown to the police in their original form, or as a copy certified by a public authority or other body with such competence. The documents must be translated into English or Norwegian by an approved translator.

As enclosure to the application we need, however, only copies of the documents. Bring your own copies of the documents when you enclose when you submit the application. When you have shown the original documents or a certified copy, and the police have confirmed that they are the same as the copies, you may bring the original documents back home.

If the application is submitted for processing without satisfactory documentation, it may be rejected for these reasons.

All applicants must provide the following:

- A recent passport photo
- A copy of all pages in all travel documents you have had the last three years. If you do not have a travel document, you must submit other documentation on your identity.

In addition, you must check whether the following documentation is relevant to your application:

- If you have previously held a Norwegian travel document or immigrant's passport, this must be surrendered to the police in the case of a renewal (surrender at issuance of new documents).
- If you do not have a travel document, you must enclose a copy of your other identity documents (if you have not enclosed these in former applications)
- If you have attempted to obtain a travel document from your country of origin, this must be documented. If you have not contacted the authorities in your country of origin, you must explain why.
- If you have had an application for a travel document from your country of origin rejected, this must be documented. If such documentation cannot be provided, you must explain why.
- If you have mislaid your current or previous Norwegian travel document, or the document has been lost in some other way, you must enclose the report of the loss with a detailed explanation of how the document was lost.
- If you are applying for a document for a single trip, the reason for the trip must be documented.
