6 Information for the employer

If an employer, wilfully or through gross negligence, provides materially incorrect or clearly misleading information in a case that falls under the Immigration Act, the employer may be liable for punishment by fines or a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both (see the Immigration Act Section 108 second paragraph letter c).

If the employer, grossly or repeatedly, violates the provisions of the Immigration Act that are intended to safeguard the pay and working conditions of foreign employees, the Directorate of Immigration may decide on a period of disqualification, which means that we will not grant residence permits for the performance of work for the employer (see the Immigration Act Section 27 fifth paragraph).

The Act relating to the Working Environment, Working Hours and Employment protection etc. (the Working Environment Act) also applies to foreign employees.

7 Signatures

If both parties have not signed, we may reject the application for a residence permit.

I hereby confirm that the information is correct and complete.
